ClariFI Integrates QSG's Equity Model Scores Into ModelStation

BOCA RATON, Fla. & NAPERVILLE, Ill., Mar 20, 2007 (BUSINESS WIRE) -- ClariFI(TM), a leading provider of software and services focused on quantitative portfolio management and research, and Quantitative Services Group LLC (QSG), an independently owned consulting firm and leading provider of sophisticated equity analytics, announced today the integration between their respective solutions. By making QSG's equity model scores and stock selection indicators accessible directly from ClariFI's ModelStation platform, joint clients will be able to research, test, and get their alpha generating strategies into production in less time and with less effort.

Tim Sargent, President of QSG commented, "By integrating our products, our joint clients will no longer need to import and export data between our two solutions which takes time and can introduce unnecessary operational risk. With this development I believe we have delivered what the sophisticated equity managers using these platforms have been striving for, an integrated solution that delivers a powerful combination of functionality and value-added content."

Donovan Goodreau, Vice President of Business Development for ClariFI stated, "We are very excited that we can now offer our clients seamless access to QSG's unique research content that is being developed using the latest technology, portfolio construction techniques, and specialty data available. I firmly believe that the integration between our products will give our joint clients a distinct competitive advantage in the marketplace."
